

A system to manually delete points use variance impact of each point to optimize

Simply use the distance from points to a regression line

The points we need to be ignored in order to optimize graphs

The subjective decision that has to be made by customer